One day a poor beggar passed his gate. He begged for food. He was very hungry. He begged again and again but Mathu Lal kept mum. He pretended to be hard of hearing. The more the beggar cried, the more unconcerned Mathu Lal seemed. The beggar tried his best to persuade the greedy old man to give him something to eat but failed. The selfish old man did not soften. At last he went his way cursing the old man. Even then the old man kept quiet.

After some time a small boy passed that way. He seemed to have lost his way and was weeping bitterly. He requested Mathu Lal to help him find his way home. The little boy was in a pitiable state but stoned hearted Mathu Lal did not utter a words. He kept pretending to the deaf.

After a few days, a pet dog with golden colour passed that way. Mathu Lal saw him passed before his eyes. The rich owner of the dog also rode that way on the back of his horse. He asked Mathu Lal about his dogs and promised him a reward of fifty rupees if his information led to the recovery of the dog. 2. Read the following poem and answer the questions that follow:

THE FLOWER SCHOOL

When storm clouds rumble in the sky and June
 Showers come down,
 The moist East wind comes marching over the
 Heath to blow its bagpipes among the bamboos.
 Then crowds of flowers come out of a sudden,
 From nobody knows where, and dance upon
 The grass in wild glee.
 Mother I really think the flowers go to school
 Underground
 They do their lessons with doors shut, and if
 They want to come out to play before it is time
 Their master makes them stand in a corner.
 When the rain comes they have their holidays.
 Branches clash together in the forests, and the Leaves rustle in the wild wind, the thunder clouds
 Clap their giant hands and the flower children

Rush out in dresses of pink and yellow and white.

Do you know, mother, there home is in the sky,

Where the stars are.

Haven't you seen hoe eager they are to get there?

Don't you know why they are in such a hurry?

Of course I can guess to whom they raise there

arms: they have their mother as I have my own.
